

90 PER CENT OF CRIMINALS ARE UNMARRIED, HE SAYS

Ninety per cent of criminals are bachelors.

Only half of married men who became crooks have children.

Women who take up crime are single or separated from their families.

Women crooks won't tell the truth.

If a married man gets into trouble, he usually commits a real crime, not a misdemeanor.

The way to lessen crime is to advocate early marriages.

By United Press.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3.—After an investigation of 400 criminal cases, James J. Lind, Cleveland chief police prosecutor, has found out that nine tenths of all crooks are unmarried. Two thirds of the men jailed were between the ages of 21 and 30, according to his figures, available here today.

"It seems that conditions in unmarried life tend to make men criminals or that persons with criminal instincts are inclined not to marry," concluded Lind after his investigation.

"In 400 cases which passed through my office there was no definite economic condition that would result in crime.

"Only about half of the married prisoners had children and many of the married ones were separated from their families.

"As a rule women who take up crime are also single or at least separated from their husbands or families.

"This is hard to prove because women prisoners are not inclined to tell the truth. When a woman lands in jail she generally claims to be married and says if her husband hears of her predicament he will forsake her forever. She also claims to be the mother of several small children dependent on her care—all of which nine times out of ten, is untrue.

"If a married man gets into trouble he generally commits a real crime, not a misdemeanor. If a married man with children finds his way behind the bars, it is usually money troubles which have placed him there.

"But if any particular class of the human family is a menace to the rest, unmarried men are the guilty ones.

"The way to lessen crime is to advocate early marriages. What a man needs to keep him out of trouble is a good home environment.

"If mothers realized this they would cease opposing early marriages."

STATE TO ELIMINATE ALL HOG DISEASES

Campaign Is Begun Under Veterinarian to Do Away With Cholera.

FARMER MUST HELP

Government to Furnish Serum Free—Experiments Carried On.

"Hog cholera is more dangerous than foot-and-mouth disease. Report any disease among hogs as you would glanders, anthrax, Texas fever, tuberculosis, or foot-and-mouth disease. Don't wait to determine whether hogs have cholera. Report any sick hog in your school district without delay. Give name of owner and locality of hogs."

This is the warning sent out to district clerks and members of the school board all over the state in the campaign of the State Veterinarian, under the Missouri State Board of Agriculture of Columbia, in co-operation with the officials of the United States Department of animal husbandry, to control and prevent hog cholera and other diseases of hogs.

Experimental Work Is Done.

It is proposed to deal with hog cholera on the same principles as with other diseases of live stock which have already been controlled. Experimental work in Pettis County has demonstrated the essentials of success. The work was begun in Grundy and Henry counties early in 1916 and hog cholera has been kept under control in these two counties at a small expense.

Ten additional Southwest Missouri counties are now organized, so work can be done this year and hog cholera kept under control. It is further planned to make this work State-wide during 1917 in order to stop millions of dollars of loss from the diseases in this State.

The system will consist of locating the breaking out of the disease and reporting it to the central office in Columbia. Up to July 21 breakouts on nine farms were reported by telephone and within an hour a deputy was on the way with reliable serum. In no case has the disease been allowed to spread to another farm.

Expenses will be paid by the State or Federal government. The owner will be asked to pay only for the serum at cost. There will be no charge for its administration or the investigation. The owner should, however, keep his sick hogs rounded up so that they will not spread the disease to the neighbors' hogs, and he should also burn all hogs that die from any disease whatever.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE MEETING HAS POLITICIANS WORRIED

By United Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 3.—Politicians here got their ears close to the ground in anticipation of the emergency-called convention of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, which opens here September 6. This was shown by letters and telegrams pouring in on suffrage leaders here today.

With the leaders of the women's forces determined to follow up the victories gained at the Democratic and Republican national conventions, the action to be taken by the delegates here promises to hold much interest for the political wiseacres at the Maine elections.

Moreover, this interest is being stimulated by the air of mystery which hovers over the suffrage convention, as comparatively little news has leaked out to date concerning either the program or the plans of the leaders. Nor will women at the head of the movement relieve the anxiety of the watchful political waiters with any advance information on the subject.

"We have called the convention so that every phase of every subject which concerns our cause, our policies and our organization may be properly considered," said Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, when interviewed here today.

"But what action are you going to take?" demanded the interviewer.

"That will be for the convention to decide," was the smiling reply. "You may state, however, that no voice will be silenced and no opinion suppressed." Further than that Mrs. Catt would say nothing.

Sixty-seven state suffrage organizations, covering every state in the Union, are affiliated with the national suffrage association and will be represented at the convention, which will extend from September 6 through September 10. Altogether, more than a thousand of the most representative women of the country will be in attendance.

Although the official program has not yet been made public, it is known that a three-sided debate among the supporters of state action, federal action and those who believe in both, will be one of the big features of the convention.

In the South the feeling is said to be strong against the national suffrage association abandoning any policy that would lead to a straight fight for a federal suffrage amendment.

In other sections of the country, notably in those states where amendments to state constitutions take years of work and are regarded as practically impossible, the sentiment is reported to be equally strong for the abandonment of state campaigns and a concentration of the national's machinery for a drive on Congress.

Both of these factions will be well represented at the convention, as well as those suffragists who believe in a continuation of the policy of combined federal and state action, which has won twelve states for suffrage and converted millions of voters to believe in it all over the nation.

The clash between these factions will be watched with interest by the politicians, because the outcome may have a decided effect upon the fall campaigns of both the leading parties.

DON'T BATHE NOW, IS HIS ADVICE

Prof. Frederick Dunlap Says to Use the Water in Saving Trees.

"Better do without a bath and use the water for saving the trees during this drouth," said Frederick Dunlap, professor of forestry in the University.

Although the water supply is short, Professor Dunlap said that by a little effort of saving the water used for baths and washing, the trees could be sufficiently watered. "The trees are so dry now that they will take up all the water than can be spared," added Professor Dunlap.

"The residents will be able to use more water as soon as the summer students leave town. They should save the trees by watering them frequently," suggested the professor in forestry.

Now Jimmy's throwing better than ever, and he says it's because he is able to bend the finger. "I've been trying to bend that finger ever since I broke into the big leagues," he said.

Thanks Mr. Dallmeyer

Mr. F. W. Dallmeyer who conducts a most excellent summer resort on the Moreau River near Jefferson City, has been running an advertisement of his camping bungalows in the Missourian for the last month. Yesterday the Missourian received the following letter from Mr. Dallmeyer regarding his advertisement:

DEW DROP INN SUMMER RESORT

F. W. DALLMEYER, Proprietor.

Jefferson City, Mo.

July 25, 1916.

THE DAILY MISSOURIAN
Columbia, Mo.

Am certainly getting results from my advertisement in your paper. Enclosed you will please find another ad which you will please run for another month at the expiration of my present advertisement.

We are enjoying an excellent business at our resorts this summer. The people I have had from Columbia were especially well pleased. Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. ——— and party were here. We had a party of seven at Dew Drop Inn for three days last week. In addition to these persons we have had several inquiries from several of the leading citizens of your city, among them Mr. W ———, who is planning to bring a crowd of young persons over for an entire week in August.

Very truly yours

F. W. DALLMEYER

If the product is good an advertisement in the Missourian will sell it—whether it is summer resorts, hotel service, shoes, dry goods or groceries. The reason for this is that the Missourian is read by nearly everybody in Columbia—and their reading includes the advertisements as well as the news.
